Two Debateable Points
Likely to Be Raised at Session Held Today at Premier MacDonald's
Residence in London.

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Aug. 5.—The German delegates arriving here today to attend the inter-allied conference are expected by noon to have before them the program for murching the Dawes plan which has been rejected from the allied statesmen's labors of the last few days.

That they will object to certain features is a foregone conclusion but according to a high American authority there are but two points to which they can technically do so. One of these is the provision for extension of deliveries in kind of coke, dyes and coal beyond the Versailles treaty of 1919 and the other is the agreement on arbitration of the question of whether financial maneuvers are taking place in Germany to defeat the Dawes plan.

The Germans will formally receive the program at a plenary session of the inter-allied conference in Premier MacDonald's official residence in Downing street after an official address to welcome by the premier. This ceremony over the conference will adjourn until Wednesday, when the Germans will be required to state their views.

The German delegation arrived in London at 8:30 a. m. accompanied by Dr. Gustave St. Hamer, the German ambassador, who met the party at Harwich. A large crowd of curious persons had assembled at the Liverpool street station to catch a glimpse of Chancellor Marx, Foreign Minister Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther. The delegates were greeted by representatives of the British foreign office and were whisked off in motor cars to the Ritz where they will be the guests of the British government.

The Germans received many documents when they crossed into London and the three chief delegates were met by Ambassador St. Hamer on the way to London, familiarizing themselves with the action of the conference committee. The plenary session of the conference will be held at 2 p. m. today. The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph this morning remarks that many British bankers will still hesitate to underwrite their part of the Dawes plan, the strength of Saturday's protocols.

The Germans went to number 10 Downing street at noon to meet the other delegates. It was understood that this meeting would be held at the German embassy and that an informal meeting would probably not be held until tomorrow.

Upon their arrival in London the German delegates through their spokesman, Herr Specker, said they wished to assist in finding the best method of putting the Dawes report into effect without alteration and that they would contribute their part to its loyal fulfillment.

The premier said he wanted to bring the conference to an end by Friday night.

The session, which was held at the premier's official residence in Downing Street lasted but 30 minutes and was opened by a welcoming address delivered by Mr. MacDonald. The German delegates headed by Chancellor Marx, Foreign Minister Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther, arrived in London at 8:30 a. m., fully prepared for the meeting, having familiarized themselves with the action of the conference committee while on route from Berlin. They were accompanied from Harwich by Dr. Gustave St. Hamer, the German ambassador in London.

Herr Specker expressed the hope that the same spirit would be found in London in which event, he said, there should be no difficulty in coming to a speedy agreement.

Replying to Mr. MacDonald's welcome, the German delegates said the German government had accepted the Dawes plan and was putting through the necessary legislation to make it effective. The German representatives, he said, hoped to introduce a friendly spirit of the original experts and hoped the allies would do the same.

Premier MacDonald presiding at a plenary session of the inter-allied conference at noon today, the German delegates handed to the German delegation the protocol embodying the program of the conference for putting the Dawes reparations report into effect. He asked the Germans to study the report and be ready to express their opinions tomorrow.

The first meeting of the Germans with the delegates of the inter-allied conference was strictly formal, held in an atmosphere of restrained cordiality. Chancellor Marx and his colleagues were seated at the foot of the horseshoe table, with Prime Minister MacDonald at its head, the French delegation to his right, and Frank B. Kellogg, the American ambassador, and James A. Logan, American representative with the reparations commission, at the left. The Americans did not participate actively in the proceedings. After the conference, Ambassador Kellogg and Mr. Logan both said the Germans had expressed the greatest desire to get the Dawes plan working as soon as possible, and that the German chancellor and his colleagues seemed to have a reasonable frame of mind for reviewing the work the conference has done.

The session was limited to the brief welcoming address of the British prime minister and a brief reply of Chancellor Marx.

The names of three such architects are to be before the board. The building committee expressed interest in the school finance committee this week relative to the securing of the almshouse property to be the site of the new Westmoreland school.

NEGRO DRAWS YEAR'S PRISON FOR ASSAULT

Coleman Crews Gets Law's Limit for Misdemeanor in Unusual Case

(Special to The Bee.)
HALIFAX, Va., Aug. 5.—Coleman Crews, a negro charged with a simple assault on Mrs. C. T. Coates of Rabat, was tried before Magistrate Starker here yesterday evening and was given the higher degree of crime. For the crime, he was sentenced to serve a year in prison and to pay a fine of $500. No appeal was taken and Crews expressed readiness to be taken to the penitentiary to begin serving his term and working out his fine. The case is believed to be the first in which a negro first charged with a hankering crime saw the degree of his offense lessened to a misdemeanor. This was done by State officials who investigated the case and who found that the available evidence did not justify proceeding against a negro for the higher degree of crime. For that reason a special grand jury was not called and the case was reopened before the magistrate.

Rabbi Muskat Called to Danville By Aetz Chayim

Announcement was made this morning by Moses Roman, president of the congregation of Aetz Chayim synagogue on Wilson street of the call tendered to Rabbi Isser W. Muskat of Marietta, Ohio, who has accepted and who has already begun his ministerial duties in this city. Ever since the removal of Rabbi A. Dobin to New York several months ago the congregation has been looking for a new minister and Rabbi Muskat was called here on trial following the church custom and he arrived on July 15th. The members of the church have been favorably impressed with Rabbi Muskat and last Sunday he was called officially and permanently, his acceptance being given. Rabbi Muskat studied at the University of Cincinnati and later took his B. A. degree at Marshall College. He also studied at Huntington, West Va., taking the law course at Ohio State University. At the time the synagogue was founded by the B'nai Israel synagogue at Huntington, West Va.

The minister this morning expressed the belief that there is a wide field for useful service here and he is confident that the new members of the Jewish school of children maintained for members of the synagogue's congregation, nearly fifty in number in September, the new members will be started and Rabbi Muskat will have complete charge of it.

ROBBERY CAUSE KILLING MRS. EVANS, MEXICO

Mrs. Pettus Leaves for Mexico to Take Charge of Sister's Estate

(By The Associated Press.)
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—The belief of the Mexican government that robbery was the principal motive for the killing of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the British subject, who was shot to death from ambush near Texmelucan Saturday night, was reiterated in an official foreign office bulletin relative to the case, issued late last evening. Officials had previously expressed their disbelief that the crime was the result of the agrarian agitation which aimed at forcing Mrs. Evans to consent to the division of her hacienda, the legal proceedings which had been an incident between the Mexican and British governments, although this possibility is conceded. The foreign office bulletin, whose expressions of President Obregon in calling attention to the energy with which the federal and state authorities are pushing the inquiry into the case and endeavoring to run down the assassins and continue the circumstances surrounding the crime give rise to the opinion that the principal motive was robbery. Nevertheless, the fact that the name of Mrs. Evans had been connected with recent international incidents causes the supposition that the present case might also be connected with the agrarian question regarding the property of the victim, although the government is confident the investigations initiated will demonstrate that the present international crime case is unfortunately an entirely committed in all parts of the world.

General Saenz, minister of foreign relations, added unofficially, he had been informed that Mrs. Evans had made all plans for her funeral more than a week previous to her death. Mrs. W. J. Pettus, wife of the American consul in Mexico, is expected to leave for the ranch in the Puebla valley of Mexico where her sister, Mrs. Rosalie Evans, was shot and killed last Saturday. Mrs. Pettus will look after her sister's body and will supervise operation of Mrs. Evans' ranch. She also intends to make every effort to bring to justice Mrs. Evans' slayers.

In a recent letter to Mrs. Pettus, Mrs. Evans said: "I am sure that anything happens, cross the issue to the limit."

APATHY SEEN IN DANVILLE AS ELSEWHERE

Estimates of Total Vote Here Is Between 1,200 and 1,500—Little Personal Work Done.

VOTE AT ONE P. M.
FIRST WARD	108
SECOND WARD	158
THIRD WARD	44
FOURTH WARD	170
FIFTH WARD	77
SIXTH WARD	77
TOTAL	632

Indications late this morning were that the primary vote to be cast in Danville today would be small one. Apathy was apparent there being even an absence of personal voters at the polling places in the city. The polls opened shortly after five o'clock and will remain open until 7:14 p. m.

The potential vote in Danville is about 4,000, many people unable to vote in the June election being now eligible. Estimates of the total vote in Danville today based on the morning vote indicated between 1,300 and 1,500 votes during the course of the day. Reports from the district generally indicated lack of interest except in the counties of Pittsylvania and Halifax, where the champions of Joseph Whitehead of Chatham, and M. E. Booker of Halifax, were striving to get out a big vote in what they considered certain territory. Friends of the Danville candidate, Walter P. Tudor, continued to claim the nomination was theirs, but the district generally indicated lack of interest in the election of Halifax and in this Tudor's friends appeared to believe he would get a larger vote than Whitehead.

These are the only three names on the ballot to be voted in the district there being no contests outside of the reason he believed that adequate returns should be in tonight before ten o'clock owing to the shortness of the ballot and the apparent lack of interest in the primary. Secretary Jesse Benton of the electoral board reported this morning that all of the clerks and judges had reported for duty at sunrise this morning and that every voting precinct was adequately manned.

CHATHAM PRECINCT REPORTS 200 AT 11:30

CHATHAM, Va., Aug. 5.—Voting in Chatham this morning was well sustained. By 11:30 a. m. 200 votes out of a possible 500 being cast at this precinct by 11:30 o'clock. It is expected that the full strength of the town's vote will be brought out before nightfall. The voting is quiet and little personal work is being done. The Whitehead people were claiming that of the two hundred votes cast here only two had been cast against him.

BOOKER PEOPLE ARE HAPPY ON HOME GROUND

(Special to The Bee.)
HALIFAX, Va., Aug. 5.—Approximately 250 votes had been cast here up to noon. The Booker people are out in great strength and are claiming that their candidate is "eating up" the other two. Claims at the local voting precinct at noon were that of the 300 or more votes which will come out of the headquarters will be maintained in Southland Hotel.

2 CONGRESS FIGHTS WILL BE SETTLED IN VIRGINIA TODAY

Today is primary day in Virginia in only two congressional districts however, were there anything like a contest. In the Fifth district, now represented in the national house of representatives by J. Murray Hooker, three candidates are seeking the favor of the Democratic voters. They are Joseph Whitehead of Pittsylvania State Senator Marshall B. Booker of Halifax and Walter P. Tudor, of Danville. Hooker is not seeking re-nomination. Clifford A. Woodrum, incumbent, is being opposed for re-nomination from the Sixth district by State Senator S. S. Lambeth, Jr., of Bedford. Although political leaders agree the campaign has failed to arouse a great deal of enthusiasm, the district has been canvassed thoroughly by both

COTTON GROWN IN THIS AREA IS INCREASING

Spread of Recent Experiments Near Ringgold Seen as Danville's Opportunity

The possibility of developing and making a new industry in Danville is likely to be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce within the near future as result of a recent trip made by one of its directors through the nearby area south of this city where cotton has been found under cultivation.

From time to time reports have been heard and printed of the increased cotton acreage in the upper edge of Caswell county and in less degree on the Pittsylvania side of the line. This has made its appearance within the past three years. The apparent success of the experiment tried by a few farmers has encouraged others to plant cotton with the result that this season it is estimated that ten times as much is growing within easy reach of Danville than was the case last year. One good sized patch of cotton which appears to be developing healthily, is to be found on the farm of W. E. Gardner on the Ringgold road and further on towards that locality occasional small fields can be seen. From Yanceyville to Milton, on the north side of the Semora, Cunningham almost to South Boston the cotton which can be seen growing from the roadside almost equals the amount of tobacco to be seen there.

Enquiry has revealed that most of this tobacco is forwarded to a broker in North Carolina towns nearer to the cotton belt who dispose of it for the farmers. Some of it however has been sold locally. The progress of the cotton in this area is being followed by a large acreage of cotton to Danville, it has been suggested, offers an opportunity to the Danville Chamber of Commerce to secure for this city one of these brokerage offices and thus lay the foundation for an established cotton market in this city should the experiment of cotton growing succeed. Cotton growing in this section is by no means assured of the sprout of this crop, but the scope of such scope that if it succeeds it will have to be reckoned with in a serious way. Many farmers decided to devote at least part of their time to its cultivation because of the comparatively little work that has to be done on the crop when compared with tobacco and the profits accruing last year to those who attempted the experiment. One objection to the crop is said to be the shortness of the season in this latitude, thus increasing the margin of risk in the loss of the crop. The Caswell county agent also last year in closely examining one or two fields of cotton near Ringgold made the unwelcome discovery of the boll weevil though very few of the cotton bolls were found to be infested.

ON BOARD SUPPLY SHIP GERTRUDSK NEAR ANGELHALL

It was the best of conditions along the coast of Greenland are worse than they have been in many years and are so bad that the American around the world fliers probably will have to refuel on the north Atlantic on the edge of the ice field or land in the open water near their supply ship, the Gertrudsk, or fly directly from Reykjavik to Ivikut, Greenland.

After encountering an ice field 35 miles wide along the east coast of Greenland, the Gertrudsk stuck fast in the heavy polar ice 15 miles from shore and now is unable to move. The ship is being towed by a westerly wind the vessel probably will not be able to free herself for several weeks.

The ship is now moving slowly down the coast toward Cape Farewell, at the southern tip of Greenland, with the ice field accompanied by many glaciers. The predicament of the Gertrudsk, it is expected will not be held up the fliers, since the almen will be able to skip the stop at Angelhalls and get through to Greenland by one of the three other alternatives.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 5.—Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, in the Chicago and Lieutenant Eric Nelson in the New Orleans arrived here from Hoenf Hornafjord on the cross Iceland lap of their round-the-world flight at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Both planes landed on the waters of the inner harbor, making fine landings. The two pilots with their mechanics, Lieutenants Leslie P. Arnold and Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., were feeling well and their machines were in good condition.

ABOARD U. S. S. RICHMOND, Aug. 5.—Every precaution is being taken by the naval patrol to guard the two remaining U. S. army planes in their short flight, scheduled for today, along the south coast of Iceland from Hoenf Hornafjord to Reykjavik, preparatory to the hazardous hop to Greenland.

The U. S. S. Raleigh will remain at Hoenf Hornafjord, where the "New Orleans, piloted by Lieutenant Eric Nelson, landed from Kirkwall, Scotland, Saturday, and the "Chicago," commanded by Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, on Sunday.

The destroyer Billingsley was due today at a point off Portland and the destroyer Recl is stationed 28 miles west of Reykjavik, while the Richmond is due to arrive at Reykjavik at 2 p. m. The course of this vessel will take her along the coast for several hours, so the fliers will be followed and if they got an unusually early start. The distance of the flight is slightly more than 300 miles.

Lieutenant Leigh Wade and his men, including Sergeant Ogden, who are aboard the Raleigh, are expected after their trying experience of Sunday in which they lost their plane, the "Boston" after a forced landing at sea on the way from Kirkwall to Hoenf Hornafjord. They have appeared somewhat over the loss of their machine, which they had hoped to salvage for sentimental reasons, even if they never flew it again.

HORNAFJORD, Iceland, Aug. 5.—The American army airplanes on their world flight hopped off from Hornafjord at 9:15 o'clock this morning from Reykjavik on the west coast of Iceland.

The United States cruiser Raleigh, which has been on station here attending the fliers, proceeded to sea, with her destination probably Reykjavik, where the fliers are expected to land. The Raleigh's flight commander, will decide upon further plans for the flight.

At 10:25 o'clock the fliers passed Skafaroe, 70 miles west of Hornafjord, flying in a sou'westerly direction. STATE'S SECOND ATTACK ON THE DEFENSE BEGINS

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Dr. Wm. Healy, of Boston, second psychiatrist testifying for the defense at the hearing to determine punishment for Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., for kidnaping and murdering Robert Frank, testified today that the crime was the direct result of Loeb's diseased mind and that the observation of the youths in the court room had confirmed his opinion from examinations that they are mentally diseased.

LAUNCH SECOND ATTACK.

The matter of which boy struck the fatal blow with a cold chisel remained the puzzle of the trial when Dr. Healy on cross examination, after a 15-minute reference to his notes, today announced that the boys had not been told which killed the Frank boy and did not know.

The psychiatrist, whose findings with others are offered in mitigation of the punishment Judge John R. Caverly will impose, was to complete today's session, after which the prosecutors were to question him.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, who has contended against admitting the expert testimony, subjected Dr. Wm. A. White, of Washington, D. C., who took the stand first in a lengthy examination, but expected to devote only an hour to Dr. Healy. Both experts stated that the undeveloped emotional side of the youths' personalities overshadowed their mature intellect to the extent of making them incapable of resisting committing the crime which they built up in their childish fantasies.

The prosecution, foiled so far in attempts to turn the hearing into a jury trial on an insanity plea, is preparing rebuttal evidence of its own alienists to show that the slayers were intellectually capable of plotting the mental irresponsibility defense theory.

Dr. Wm. Healy, Boston psychiatrist, still was on the witness stand giving direct testimony. Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, said he expected to take no more than an hour on cross-examination. He is the second of a half dozen to be called for the defense.

Cross examination of Dr. Healy began as Robert E. Crowe's state's attorney, seeking to bring out the basis of a "childish compact" between Loeb and Leopold and the hearing, upon suggestion of the defense, became silent, the witness testifying in a low voice only for the court and the stenographers.

Dr. Healy resumed his testimony by further explaining the "childish compact" he said yesterday Loeb and Leopold had entered into at the age of 15.

"This childish compact was entered into apparently for the sake of carrying out some of the childish notions which each had and was undoubtedly entered into in both instances to a certain degree anyhow," said the witness.

"No doubt some think it is a great deal worse than it really is."

The witness said Loeb began drinking at 15 years of age, a fact which he considered pertinent to the case, and began an association with older folks.

"When he got into college life he had been pushed ahead of himself," said the doctor. "He was in a situation then which was decidedly unfortunate."

Turning to his conclusions, Dr. Healy said that "on account of Loeb's abnormal life, particularly on account of his twisted emotions, as evidenced and then his pathological absence of feeling about his own misconduct, on account of his pathological split personality, and on account of the fact that it is unthinkable that a boy of the lovable qualities that endeared him to both sexes inside and outside his family circle, so carefully planned this monstrous deed unless he was mentally abnormal."

The doctor said his observation of the defendants' conduct in the court room confirmed his conclusions.

Dr. Healy asserted that in his mind the crime was the direct result of diseased mind, that the planning was possible only because of abnormal methods, that the deed was the direct outcome of Loeb's twisted emotional life, that his phantasy life had continued over many years and that his abnormal personality was encouraged by the coincidence of the coming together with another abnormal personality.

Dr. Healy said his compensation was $250 a day.

"Doctor, you talk about a childish compact," said Mr. Crowe, on cross examination. "In that part these boys agreed to practice different forms of perversion, didn't they?"

"Childish forms, yes," replied Dr. Healy.

Judge Caverly ordered examination along that line to the present.

Mr. Crowe asked the witness if he did not think, from all viewpoints, that the crime itself was the most important. Dr. Healy replied in the affirmative.

"Don't you think the manner in which they related the details of the murder might have aided you in forming your conclusion?" Mr. Crowe continued.

"No, I know enough about it already," said Dr. Healy.

"Do you know in whose mind the crime originated, did either state which actually did it?" Mr. Crowe asked.

"Not without referring to my notes, which would require a half hour," replied Dr. Healy.

Mr. Crowe demanded that he do so and at the same time determine who actually committed the deed.

Judge Caverly ordered a recess while the alienist examined his notes.

When Dr. Healy resumed, he told Mr. Crowe that the boys did not tell him which originated the crime nor did he have any notes which might help him answer; that he had not gone into that phase in the examination.

A Story Without Words

"Doctor, would you not come to the conclusion that if a moral, decent, clean-living man had committed a crime of this sort, he certainly was insane?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"I should not be of any opinion whatsoever, it should be gone into," replied the witness.

"You found that person or persons, who had committed this crime prior to that time had been cheats at cards, firebugs, thieves and perverts, you wouldn't be surprised would you?" asked the prosecutor.

"Yes," was the reply.

"In what respect?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"It is a much more remarkable crime," said Dr. Healy.

Questions by Mr. Crowe as to the meaning of "insanity" were ruled out by Judge Caverly. The prosecutor has sought diligently to have introduced a statement by defense witnesses that Loeb and Leopold are insane and thereby cause a jury trial.

Dr. Healy and Mr. Crowe through the crime, as confessed by the youths, step by step, asking Dr. Healy after each assertion: "Was that intellect or childish phantasy working when they did that?"

Almost invariably Dr. Healy replied: "It was their intellect working."

"In other words, every detail of this crime is the result of intellect and not phantasy," asked the doctor.

"I think so," replied the doctor.

Mr. Crowe sought to bring out that certain emotion displayed by the youths when their alibi were broken down could be described as "merely making those assumptions," replied the doctor. He should say that was fear.

"Loeb is the master criminal here, isn't he?" asked Crowe.

"Yes, I think so," replied the doctor.

Dr. Healy retained his equanimity under a hot fire of cross examination by Mr. Crowe, smiling easily and displaying no nervousness as the prosecutor sought to destroy the value of his testimony as a matter of consideration in fixing punishment.

At one time Mr. Crowe and Dr. Healy got into a lengthy comparison of juvenile courts and work and criminal courts, Dr. Healy explaining most of his work was with boys under 18.

"Then you have not had much experience with those who are millionaires families and who are college graduates, have you doctor?" asked Mr. Crowe. The defense objected.

Another question by Mr. Crowe brought an objection from Mr. Darby, a part of it being "because no 15 year old boys ever have been hanged in Illinois." At this point court recessed for lunch.

BOLSHEVICKS RAID POLISH TOWN STOLTSY

(By The Associated Press.)
WARSAW, Aug. 5.—A bolshevik band, armed with machine guns and bombs, raided the Polish town of Stoltz (Stoltsy), southwest of Minsk, dispatches just received.

The raiders released prisoners from the jail and pillaged the post office and railroad station, smashing the telephone and telegraph instruments, so that the news was not transmitted to Warsaw until the affair was over.

The raiders were captured by the tax collectors office by the company and police after fight in which one of the employees and seven of the policemen were killed. The Polish cavalry going to their aid were greeted with a burst of machine gun fire and a regular battle followed. The raiders escaped, leaving a number of wounded.

Cavalry forces are hot after the band, with some prospect of its capture, according to latest reports. Some of the raiders, it is stated, wore the regulation soviet army uniform bearing red stars.

The cabinet has been called in special session to consider the emergency border raids of which the latest is said to be one of the worst examples.

NO ELECTION FOURTH DISTRICT

(By The Associated Press.)
PETERSBURG, Va., Aug. 5.—There being no opposition to Congressman Patrick H. Drewry, no election is being held today in the Fourth District. Although several had been mentioned in connection with the race for a seat in Congress, it failed to materialize and Representative Drewry was declared the party nominee by the Fourth District Democratic committee. This is the first time in many years that there has been no congressional contest in this district.

HOT CAMPAIGN IS BEING STAGED MISSOURI TODAY

(By The Associated Press.)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Missouri voters went to the polls today to elect for party nominees to the various state, congressional, judicial, county and local offices to be filled in the November elections.

Following one of the most energetic and bitter campaigns in the political history of the state, interest in the primary appeared centered chiefly in the outcome of the gubernatorial race in which five democrats and three republican aspirants are entered.

With the main issues of prohibition and the Ku Klux Klan sharply drawn by the candidates for the office of governor and other issues emphasizing tax reduction and law enforcement, interest turned from the congressional race in which 16 of the Missouri congressmen seek re-nomination.

Of the list of candidates for state and congressional offices, sixteen were women. Mrs. Kate S. Morrow, of Warrensburg, democratic secretary of the state committee, the first woman to file for a major office in Missouri, made a vigorous campaign for the office of secretary of state.

Alice Curtis Moyer-Winters, of Greenfield, entered the Republican race for Congress from the 13th district. In the contest for state treasurer, Mrs. Edith E. Garver, of Springfield, fielded the Socialist ticket while one woman filed for state senator and nine for state representatives.

Walton Looms Up In Oklahoma Race

(By The Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 5.—The five-cornered race for the moderate nomination for U. S. senator in which interest centers on J. C. Walton, ousted governor and anti-klan candidate overshadowed all contests in Oklahoma's primary today.

Attacking the klan and touching lightly on economic questions and his decision to govern, Walton carried his campaign into every section of the state. He is regarded by political observers as a formidable candidate.

Walton's opponents are Charles J. Wrightman, Tulsa, oil magnate; S. P. Wrightman, former attorney general; T. P. Gore, former United States senator and E. E. Howard, congressman from the first district.

Wrightman and Howard are said to have klan approval. Wrightman also has the endorsement of the farmer-labor-progressive league.

In the Republican senatorial race, W. P. Plaf, of Okmulgee, is opposed by Eugene Lorton, Tulsa, publisher. Hugh Scott, superintendent of Muskogee veteran's hospital, B. G. Birmingham, and C. B. Leedy, Lorton, waged a campaign against the klan. Walton was endorsed by the Oklahoma City klan.

Nominees for eight congressional places will be named as well as electors for the Republican Democratic, farmer labor and socialist party.

Mrs. Frank Tinney Sues For Divorce

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Frank Tinney announced today that she had determined to sue for separation from her comedian husband, whose recent arrest and hearing on charges of having administered a beating to Imogene Wilson, a Polles girl, caused widespread attention.

"We had all I can stand," Mrs. Tinney said while press servers were seeking her husband aboard the steamship Columbus, on which he was to sail for Europe today. "I've tried to play on the level with Frank and he's a good fellow and a regular pal. But you can only use a postage stamp once and I guess that about describes me."

Mrs. Tinney added that papers asking the separation already had been prepared and would be filed later in the day. She said she would not seek a divorce.

AWAIT ACCEPTANCE SPEECHES NOMINEES

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Completion of the campaign plans of the republican party will await the acceptance speeches of President Coolidge and John W. Davis, the democratic nominee. Party leaders here say they will not regard the campaign as definitely under way until they have an opportunity to assess the reception of the speeches by the opposition and the public.

All members of the national committee are expected to be here for the formal notification exercises of President Coolidge, to be held the night of August 14th.

Artillerymen Are On War Footing at Ft. Monroe Today

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 5.—Virginia national guardsmen at Ft. Monroe are on a "war time" schedule today, there being scheduled for this afternoon infantry drills, artillery drill and pistol practice, in which all the officers and men will participate.

General Wm. R. Smith, commanding officer of the Chesapeake Bay coast defenses, spoke to the men last night on the place and the value of the national guard, telling them that they were with the regular army the backbone of the army in time of war.

Last night there was a dance at the Sherwood Inn, Old Point, in which scores of guardsmen took part. The belles of the peninsula were present.

There will be guard mount at 4 o'clock this afternoon following which the "second battalion" will stage a parade for purposes of instruction.

Major C. L. Chesapeake will lecture to the guardsmen tonight on national defense day, about which a controversy is raging at this time as the result of declarations against it by J. W. Davis, and Governor Chas. E. Smith, democratic nominees for president and vice-president respectively.

Athletics were started yesterday afternoon and there were two fast games of base ball. The Lynchburg battery nine defeated Roanoke and Clifton Forge trounced Covington.

Officers and men attending the encampment all appear in excellent health although many of them are said to be the result of swimming in the hot sun.

Langley Field Being Inspected

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 5.—The Hampton Roads naval base air station and Langley Field will be inspected Wednesday by the committee of inquiry into operations of the "United States air services," which was created by the house of representatives at the last session of congress on motion of Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin. Besides the army and navy air services the government conducts the postal air service.

The committee is headed by Representative Florian Lampert of Ohio, republican, and the remaining membership is made up of four republicans—Vestal of Indiana; Perkins of New Jersey; Faust of Missouri; and Reid of Illinois, and four democrats—Lester of California; First of New York; O'Sullivan of Connecticut and Rogers of New Hampshire.

The committee held its first formal meeting yesterday in Washington and, after stating that its inquiry would be entirely non-partisan and fair, decided to come to Langley Field and Hampton Roads as one of its initial steps in the direction of first-hand information.

Dry Agents Raid Arlington Hotel

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The fashionable Le Paradis and Arlington hotel roofs were raided again last night in the police, almost noiseless manner recently adopted by prohibition agents. Two arrests were made, the man in each case, as usual, being invited to accompany the formally groomed raider in a patrol wagon to the nearest police station, where he was allowed to post bail for appearance today. This was the third raid within the last few weeks at the Le Paradis and the second at the Arlington.

GREAT BRITAIN SOVIET RUSSIA FAILS TO AGREE

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Aug. 5.—The negotiations between the representatives of Great Britain and Soviet Russia have broken down and the projected treaty will not be signed, it was announced this morning by the foreign office.

The British and Russian delegations were in session all night until 7:15 o'clock this morning, the announcement said. The soviet representatives were unable to accept the amendment and concessions offered in regard to article 14 on the draft treaty. No agreement could be reached, it was stated, had the negotiations broken down.

Both the Russians and the English who took part in the 18½ hour endurance test which came to a conclusion at 7:15 o'clock this morning were so exhausted that they immediately went to bed and even the British foreign office lacks full details of the final hours of the clash between the advocates of the two widely different economic systems.

The break down came as something of a surprise as the Russians and their supporters had been strongly optimistic in their statements and a belief had been created that a treaty between Russia and England would be signed shortly.

There has been much speculation in diplomatic circles as to what Secretary of State Hughes might have said to Prime Minister MacDonald during the secretaries' visit here with regard to Russian recognition. Likewise the German delegates here for discussion of the Dawes plan are eager to know whether the breakdown of the Anglo-Russian negotiations will affect their own negotiations with the allies.

The collapse of the Russian negotiations here was almost as sensational as the signing of the treaty of Rapallo by the Russians and Germans during the Geona conference.

Auto Dealers Losing Sales

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 5.—Automobile dealers of Newport News complain that they are losing many sales as a result of the closing of the automobile license tag office here and the distribution of all tags from Richmond. One dealer says that several people have formed a plan to have cars go to Richmond to buy cars and get tags rather than wait a month or so for the tag to come through from Richmond.

MANY AMERICAN OLYMPIC ATHLETES PLAN TO RETIRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Almost a score of America's star track and field athletes wore the United States shields in Olympic competition for the last time at Paris. Within a few months fully one-half of these athletes will have retired from the scenes they have dominated so long by virtue of a fine co-ordination of brain and brawn.

Of the sprinters Charlie Paddock, Jackson V. Scholz, J. Alfred Leoney and possibly Loren Murchison are about to desert the older path. Golf has usurped the place once occupied by running in the affections of Paddock, Scholz, who, single-handed, upheld America's prestige in the sprint at Paris and who has devoted 10 years of his life to racing, is ready to yield his laurels to a younger man. Leoney came out of retirement to represent his country in the 400-metre relay for the last time and probably will withdraw before he becomes a has-been. Murchison, disappointed over his failure to win at least one of the sprints at Paris, may try to stage a come-back, but business is taking more and more of his time and son may compel him to abandon the spiked shoe.

LOCALS TAKE FIRST OF SERIES FROM POINTERS-- M'DONALD HITS WELL

The Champions won the opener in the High Point series yesterday afternoon handily, defeating the slugger Herndon by the score of 7 to 5.

Pitcher McWhirter, owner Murphy's boxman, was in rare form and held dangerous Pointer batsmen well in hand at all times, until the final inning when two singles, one of them a lucky one by Allison, were followed by a long hit to center by LaVoie, pinch-hitting for Pitcher Hunter.

This hard drive score the two men on, but Rekan retired the batsman, when he tried to stretch the hit, by a beautiful peg to Myers, thus ending the game.

For the first four innings McWhirter had given up but one hit. In the fifth Townsend, the league's leading batsman, landed for a home run which just cleared the right field fence. In the sixth Meekin opened with a two-base hit to center, and by aid of an infield out and J. Smith's sacrifice fly, added another run. With the score 7 to 2 against them, Manager Herndon added the third run in the 7th with a circuit smash.

In the final inning, after Myers had thrown G. Thrasher out, Tex Allison peeled off a roller which ran in and out along third-base line, finally inflicting inward and hitting the baseliner just sufficiently to prevent Murphy making a play at first. Then Schmidt hit a fast bouncer just to the left of second base, and which Myers could not intercept. Townsend sent a hard ground drive which landed on one of McWhirter's good ones and smashed it to the fence in left center, Allison and Schmidt scoring. LaVoie dashed for second in an effort to stretch the hit, possibly expecting a throw home, but Regan lined the ball to Myers who caught LaVoie and ended the game.

The Danville hurler was in superb form, whiffing such batsmen as Meekin, G. Thrasher and Allison, passing only two men and keeping the hits well scattered.

support, nothing like an error marring the local play.

From a fielding standpoint, the game was a beautiful one, the only error being a high throw to second on which McDonald, who had the throw beaten, even had it been good, was enabled to continue his sprint to third. The misplay cost nothing, however. McDonald, who had a perfect day at bat got a big hand from the crowd which drove in his mitted hand extended to its length. Staley contributed another stellar play when he ran far afield in the direction of first, snatched a two-cushion shot to left-center. He was given perfect ground drive and retired the batsman. In the seventh Myers made an equally pretty play when he grabbed G. Thrasher's fast grounder on the run just behind second base and nipped him at Resco's corner.

A pass for McDonald, Resco's single and Cochlin's two-bagger accounted for the opening run in the second inning.

In the third Trefrey pulled the unexpected when he laid down a perfect bunt and beat it out. Myers bunted him to second, and Staley grounded to Schmidt, who tried to force Trefrey at third, but failed, and both men were on. Then Murphy did the clean-up stunt, driving both runners in with his hard two-bagger smash to center.

In the fifth, Hunter got away to a bad start for the inning when he gave Murphy a walk. McDonald bunted him to second, and Resco rapped the ball just inside first base-line, scoring Murphy. Regan tried to bunt, but popped out to Pitcher Hunter. Cochlin's third hit advanced Resco, and both scored on McWhirter's two-bagger.

The hitting of Cochlin, McDonald and Resco featured. By bunting eight of their ten hits in three innings, Danville made them effective for runs and their good lead saved them from probable extra innings. An incident amusing to everybody except McDonald came in the 8th inning. McDonald had gotten on by a hit, and Resco was at bat, with the hit-and-run on. Every time McDonald laid out away to a good lead, Resco fouled the ball. This occurred some three or four times in succession, and the outfielder was doing a sort of continuous 30-yard dash. Finally Hunter hooked the batsman out, and McDonald retired to the restful solitude of right field.

Umpire Brandon made his debut here and was calling balls and strikes. On the whole he made an excellent impression, and there were few occasions for any real kicking, though some of the players stalled a bit when Hunter had slipped one over on them and Mr. Brandon called as he saw 'em. Really the game was like the lawful beverages of the day—kickless throughout.

The two teams go at it hammer and tongs today, and other fine exhibition of the sport is anticipated. Pitcher Shoaf will probably be sent to the mound, while for the visitors Jelsma or Oheen will be the mounds-men. Rube Eldridge is not with the Pointers on this trip. Such baseball as that of yesterday ought to attract a fine crowd today. Incidentally the Tobaccoists have won five of the seven games played, a pace which will soon have them fighting around the top.

One of the batting sensations of the American League chase is Goslin. Washington outfielder. The big fellow has been clouting at a terrific gait and at present is right up among the leaders.

AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE BECOMES MORE GRIPPING

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—There are great days for the Yankees in the American League. While New York, Detroit, and Washington sap each other's vitality with spirit and courage, the remaining five clubs slowly but steadily reduce the gaps which separate them from the leaders and from one another.

As the Yankees again bounded to the fore through their defeat of the Tigers, the Browns advanced to within three games and a half of the Senators. The Yankees today headed the field by one game and Detroit, in second place, distances Washington by half a game.

Between the fourth place Browns and the last place Athletics only ten games intervene.

Launching one of the "winning rallies" for which they are famous, the Yankees forced to the front in the eighth, were tied by the Jungle Cats in the ninth and ultimately won by a score of 9 to 8 in the eleventh. Ruth's 34th homer was the headline performance.

St. Louis made it two straight over Washington and six wins in seven starts by taking the second game of the series, 5 to 2. Winard pitched in his usual invincible form.

After getting rid of all the poor pitching in his system in the first inning, Messenger, Cleveland's recruit from Saginaw, Mich., recuperated and held on safe while his team mates hammered out a 1 to 5 victory.

New York and Chicago cut each other's throats while Pittsburgh gained another half notch on the national league champions.

The Pirates, who moved into second place Sunday, now are 7 1-2 games to the rear of the Giants and half a game ahead of the Cubs.

Both games of the New York-Chicago double bill were decided on the pitcher's mound entirely.

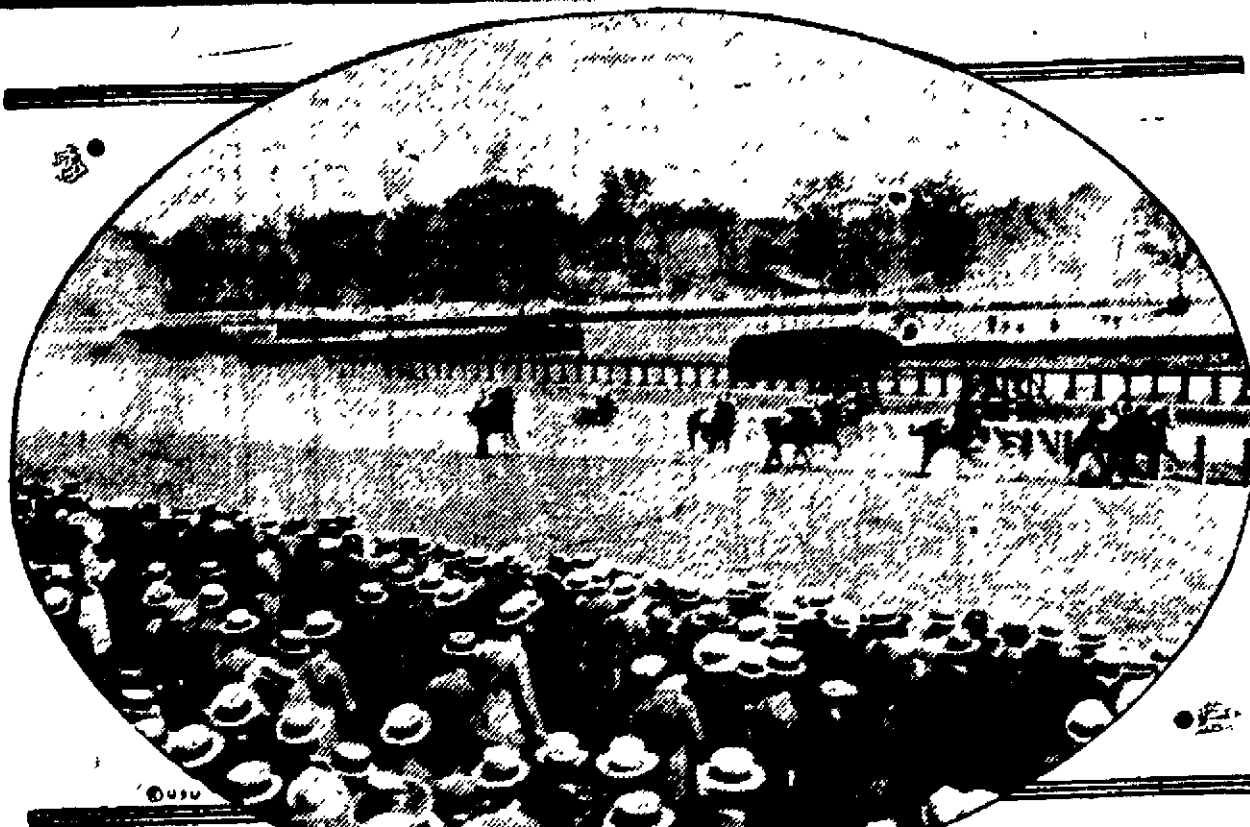

The McGraw clan to an easy 5 to 1 conquest in the opener and later returned the compliment in the finale by a 5 to 2 count. Cotter and Stutz hit for the circuit.

Wilbur Cooper's slants were too deceptive for Brooklyn and Pittsburgh went home with the bacon by a margin of 5 to 3. A Crey's home run with Gooch on second clinched the argument.

Cincinnati opened its series in Philadelphia with a six to three win. Although Luque was hit hard he was stingy when bingles were most needed. Cy Williams hit his 12th homer of the season.

St. Louis handed the rudderless Braves their daily drubbing to the tune of 4 to 1. Dickerman dispensed only six hits.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

(Copyright, 1924.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—There are many who believe that Bill Johnston's career by Howard Kinsey in singles play at Sea Bright was but another note in the Johnstonian knell which was first heard on the shores of Forest Hill when the Anderson disposed of the Californian in the 1923 singles match.

Following this upset came Little Bill's poor showing in the national singles against the German town. Then last week he bowed to Howard Kinsey at Sea Bright. Croakings are heard in the land. It has frequently been said that the United States cup never worry about the Davis cup so long as Little Bill is in the field. Now it appears that Johnston's career is about to end.

This may be. But the writer is not yet inclined to join the prophets of doom. True, Little Bill's play at Sea Bright was on the whole disappointing, but there were moments of brilliance, too.

When the results of the Kinsey-Johnston match were turned in on one seemed to remember that Johnston had played very little tennis this year, has designedly refrained from the game lest he repeat the experience of past years and be cooked by the time the national singles arrived.

What more likely in view of this, that he should reveal flawed form in the first important tournament of the year. In past seasons Little Bill has swept but a shadow of himself in the crucial test of the season.

This year the Californian decided upon a six-week campaign with the idea of reaching the peak at the end of the season instead of in the middle.

It would be the part of wisdom therefore to wait until Johnston is bidding his time, before passing definite judgment upon this sterling sportsman.

All the chances are that when Johnston appears in the invitation tournament at Newport on August 11 the excellent results of his experience at Sea Bright and the intensive subsequent will be very much evidence.

Certainly it is not unreasonable to ask that opinion to be withheld in the ground for definite opinion be established.

For Howard Kinsey, he displayed against Johnston about being a lazy brand of tennis which is significant of his further progress.

In tennis doubles there is nothing to indicate that the Davis Cup committee has any definite who the American team will be. Johnston and Griffin defeated the Kinsey brothers at Sea Bright, but he heard from Hunter and Tilden and Williams, the 1923 Davis cup doubles team.

There is no assurance that any team selected will be to defeat that splendid pair of the United States, Australia, wins the right to engage in the challenge round. The team from the Antipodes have already defeated the Kinseys twice this season without too great effort.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The National Association of Amateur Golfers will hold their annual regatta at Forest Hill August 8 and 9 and the entries certainly promise great contests.

But probably no future regatta will be so exciting as that one, now ancient history, when in the seventies on that stream the winning flags were first given to Harvard and then eventually turned over to Yale on the judges' decision because the finish line was on an angle to the banks of the river.

Coach Wilce of Ohio State is hard at work on Morningside Heights in class room and field laboratory, teaching host of Columbia summer school students how to solve the problems of the gridiron. In view of the marvelous execution of his pupils, Workman, he should be able to show those who sit at his feet how to make the most out of the forward pass. Those two great passes—Workman to Stinchcomb—pulled his Wisconsin game out of the fire a few years ago when it was apparently hopelessly lost.

Unusual attention attaches to the international polo matches to be played at Meadow Brook in September, as they will be graced by the presence of royalty. More than that, some eight of the ponies that will be seen at Meadow Brook belong to the Prince of Wales. The British team will be made up of Major Kirkwood and Colonel Melville, alternates at No. 1; Major Phipps-Horneby and Major Hurdall at No. 2 and No. 3 respectively, with Major Atkinson as alternate at either position and Louis Laceyback with Major Vivian Lockett as his substitute.

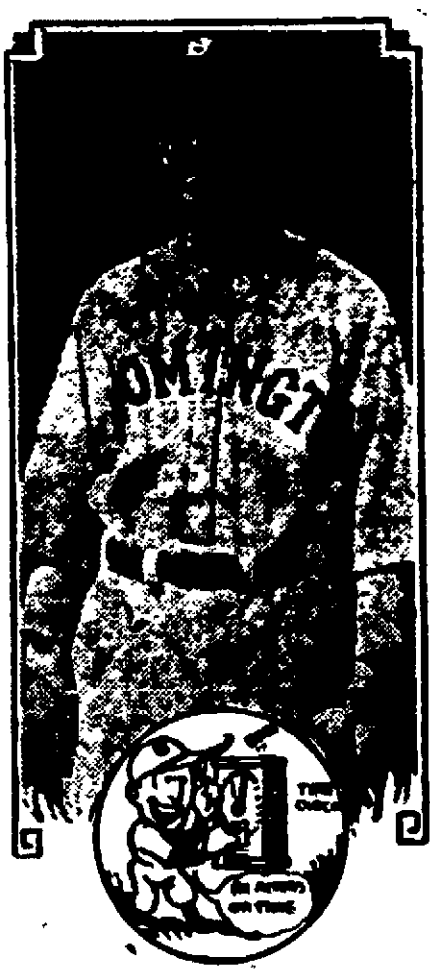

PREDICTS VICTORY FOR "DRYS"

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 5.—Confidence that the "dry" forces would score an overwhelming victory in the forthcoming elections was expressed in a statement issued here today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league of America.

"In former congressional primaries and elections since prohibition went into effect," his statement declared, "the wets obtained scarcely one-third. Thus far this year, 170 congressional districts have nominated and the dries have won in 132, with a fighting chance for five more. Nine United States senators have been nominated on each ticket. All those who have a chance to win are against the wine and beer program of the wets or any weakening of the Volstead act."

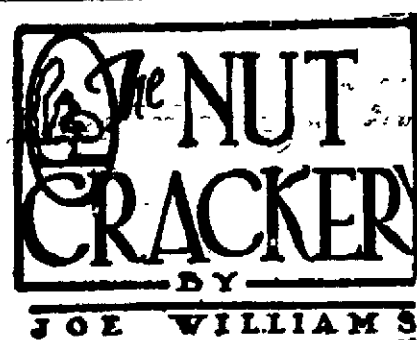

NO LOVE SCENES
LONDON, Aug. 5.—The plays which have opened the summer theatrical season in London are without love-scenes of any description, critics have pointed out. Play-makers say that modern dramatists fight shy of big love scenes because they feel that love is becoming "a more casual thing" in real life.

Davis Is Opposed By Burton Kansas

(By The Associated Press.)

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 5.—The Republican race for the gubernatorial and United States senatorial nominations hold their chief interest in the Kansas state-wide primary today.

Senator Arthur Capper, candidate to succeed himself, is opposed by Sheffield Ingalls and Tom D. Smith. Senator Capper has been attacked for his opposition to the policies of President Coolidge on the bonus.

Ben S. Faulen, lieutenant governor, Ku Klux Klan endorser; Clyde M. Reed, editor and former chairman of the state public utilities commission; former Governor W. R. Stubbs, and J. F. Renken, anti-Klan entrant, are seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

In the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Governor Jonathan M. Davis is opposed by Harry B. Burton, former mayor of Kansas City. Two other names appear on the ballots, but these candidates have thrown their support to Davis.

Six candidates are entered for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

LABOR LAW IS CRUCIAL POINT IN THE SIXTH

Rep. Woodrum Is Opposed by S. S. Lambeth of Bedford County

(By The Associated Press.)

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 5.—Democratic voters of the sixth congressional district are today nominating a candidate for Congress, two men are in the field. Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, who is now serving his first term in Congress is opposed by Senator S. S. Lambeth, Jr. of Bedford.

The campaign has failed to arouse a great deal of enthusiasm, although the candidates have canvassed the district closely. It has been largely around Congressmen Woodrum's stand on the question of federal child labor control, he having voted for the child labor amendment to the constitution submitted to the states by the last session of Congress.

The nominee will be opposed in November by Fred W. McWane, of Lynchburg, Republican nominee.

A. F. L. Launches National Campaign

(By The Associated Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, whose endorsement of the La Follette-Wheeler candidates and platform was accepted by the recipients yesterday, launched today into its announced campaign of participation in all national, state and local elections of 1924.

The council has picked its presidential and vice-presidential favorites. Next it will scrutinize the records of the aspirants to Congress with a view to swinging the votes of labor to such republicans, democrats or progressives as may have won the rating "friendly to labor."

This is the program for today and, possibly, tomorrow. The national non-partisan political campaign committee of the federation did not wait until its endorsement of La Follette and Wheeler was O. K.'d by the council before beginning its survey of congressional material.

Samuel Gompers, president, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, have been at it for months with two of their vice-presidents, James O'Connell and Matthew Woll.

Members of the executive council announced this morning they expected from the committee, some time today, a report and recommendations concerning congressional candidates.

"which would be of great public interest," The labor leaders say that, in conformance with the oft-reiterated non-partisan policy of the American Federation of Labor, the congressional candidates recommended to labor voters will include democrats, Republicans and others with independent designations.

Miriam Burns Is Defending Title

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The first match rounds of the women's western golf championship were played today at Onwentsia club with weather conditions considerably improved over the almost unplayable situation produced by yesterday's torrential rains. There are 22 contenders for the title now held by Miriam Burns, of Kansas City. Although the course was not flooded, appeared doubtful whether any of the players would excel the medal score of 84 made yesterday by Edith Cummings of Onwentsia, national champion. This performance was three strokes under par.

DAVIS ATTENDS DUCHES COUNTY PICNIC THURS.

(By The Associated Press.)

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Having no pressing engagements on his calendar, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, remained at his home here today, spending here tomorrow morning, he will have conferences with leaders at his New York headquarters and in the evening will go to Hyde Park, N. Y., with Mrs. Davis to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and to attend the Dunes County Democratic picnic on Thursday.

Governor Smith is to speak at the picnic and some of his friends believe he will take this occasion to formally announce his decision not to become a candidate to succeed himself. At the same time, they look to him to open the national campaign in New York state.

Mr. Davis and the governor had a conference yesterday at which the political situation in this state and the east was thoroughly canvassed. While Mr. Davis desired Governor Smith to offer himself again for the governorship, this matter was not brought in to the conference, the nominee respecting the governor's decision, made sometime ago.

All of these old clothes collected by the Salvation Army should be sent to the bathing beach.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The presidential election next Nov. 4 may be important, historically far beyond any election since the Civil War. It may become a historic marking of a very definite point in American affairs.

This importance lies not in the remotely possible election of Senator La-Follette to the presidency.

It lies not in the idealized possibility that the election may be deadlocked and the choice of a president thrown into Congress.

It does not even lie in the virtual certainty that an independent balance of power will be returned in the new Congress.

The really important possibility in the coming election is that it will place on a secure and permanent footing a new national party—a "third" party sufficiently strong and aggressive to sit at the national political game on terms of equality with Republicans and Democrats.

Despite the fact that Senator La-Follette and his followers have discussed the formation at this time of a new national political party, running simply as "independents," in protest against the platforms and policies of the two old parties, it is none the less true that there is an underlying hope, even an expectation, that a new national party will be born of the struggle in the coming campaign.

Although such a movement might properly be classed as "liberal," with both old parties grouped under the definition of "conservative," it is unlikely that any coalition between the remaining groups in the Republican and Democratic parties could be effected which would unite them under a common head against the new "liberal."

The result would be that for an indefinite period, at least, three major parties instead of two would contend for supremacy in every national election.

The result of a tri-party, instead of a bi-party, system would introduce difficulties that, if long continued, might force far-reaching changes in our elective machinery and legislative processes.

For instance: Should there be three strong, permanent parties, it would be virtually impossible for any presidential candidate ever to obtain a majority in the electoral college.

This would force, ultimately, a change in the method of electing the president—possibly direct elections, instead of through the medium of electors—since it is not likely the country would long stand for elections being thrown regularly into Congress.

No less a political partisan than George Lockwood, editor of the National Republican and former secretary of the Republican National Committee, declares that a general overhauling of our political and legislative machinery must result if third party groups are to hold a balance of power in Congress and in national elections.

The importance, then, of the permanent political history of the United States, of the present "independent" movement, far outweighs its immediate effect in the present campaign.

If, as its supporters believe, the "independent" movement is not a La-Follette movement primarily, but in the personality and persuasiveness of any one individual, than any con-year's campaign is almost certain to

If the LaFollette candidacy is per-there's no use worrying about the troubles to come in a tri-party system.

But just which it is no two groups will be able to agree until the votes have been cast this fall.

Next Step to Crystal Receiver

HOOKUP DIAGRAM OF SINGLE TUBE REFLEX RECEIVER.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN.
NEA Service Radio Editor

After a crystal set comes the use of a single tube.

But fans nowadays ought not jump to any kind of single tube set, discarding their crystal altogether. For there are circuits now that make the best of the single tube and combine the advantages of the crystal with it.

Such is the reflex circuit. By reflex is meant the double use of tube in radio and audio frequency. It gives the most one can get out of a tube.

The single tube is both radio and audio amplifier, while the crystal acts as detector.

The circuit here shown is a simple hookup based on this idea. It combines the idea of regeneration with the latest in reflex.

Parts of Set
The parts for the hook up are:
One 75-turn honeycomb coil, L1.
One 50-turn honeycomb coil, L2.
One .0005 mfd variable condenser,

One .00025 mfd variable condenser,
C2.
One crystal detector, D.
One rheostat, R.
One audio frequency transformer,
about 4 to 1 ratio.
Bus wire, etc., for connections.

DOUBLE-A TEAMS IN HOT
BATTLE FOR PENNANT

TOLEDO, Aug. 4.—In speaking of close baseball races, don't overlook
the American Association.

At the half-way point less than 150 points separated the first and last teams. That's a small difference in an eight-club organization. The first three clubs, Louisville, St. Paul and Indianapolis, are blanketed, while the other five are so closely bunched that a lea pfrom the cellar into fourth place could almost be made in a day.

Another interesting fact is the playing of Toledo. For years the Mad-hens have been chronic tailenders.
This season, however, the team, piloted by Jimmy Burke, is but a few games out of third place.

Bad news always looks worse coming than going.

Books

By THE NEA BOOK SURVEY

One must thank the war for a new type of fiction work now becoming rather plentiful. It is the mystery novel, based on adventures of secret service agents. In it figures a new note—hypnotism. Combine adventure with the occult and you will come pretty close to describing this new school.

To it belongs the latest John Buchanan novel, "The Three Hostages," (Houghton, Mifflin). It depicts another chapter in the life of Sir Richard Hannay, British secret service agent, but now retired.

He has had his fill of adventure in previous Buchanan books, and in the first chapter of this one, is content to settle down on his English estate with his beautiful wife and their small boy. But of course this would never do. So Buchanan conceals a wild conspiracy in which Bolsheviks and hypnotism figure.

Three persons, members of prominent American and British families, are kidnapped and held as hostages. Authorities come to Hannay and beg him to set his hand to work to free them. They must be free by a certain day, because then a round-up of the conspirators will come, and unless...

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Gleaned from one day's news here:

Seventeen people are thankful today for the throbbing toothache that kept Regina Korn awake and pacing the floor.

She saw a fire in a tenement house across the street from her window. Battling her way into the house she carried several children to safety and aroused others just in time.

After the fire was extinguished her toothache was gone.

Laurence Farrell, 9, had a toothache that caused him to moan and groan. He lay in bed he moaned and groaned. At first, Joseph, his brother, two years younger, sympathized with him. Finally Joseph shot Lawrence dead with his father's pistol to stop his "howling."

When Hubert Glossick came home his supper wasn't ready. That made him very angry. He hit his wife twice. The second blow sent Hubert, Jr., three months old, crashing to the floor from his mother's arms. The baby's skull was fractured.

Mike O'Donnell, 57 and shiftless, is sentenced to spend only three years in Sing Sing, while his partner, with whom he was convicted of attempted safe robbery, is sentenced to five years.

The court was lenient to Mike. He spent ten years in Sing Sing for a crime committed by his brother. His innocence was confirmed by the deathbed confession of his brother.

William Clark recently sentenced here to prison for five years admits spending 30 of his 62 years behind prison bars.

New York has gone wild over "crossword" puzzles. It is a serious epidemic threatening other recognized indoor sports.

This puzzle consists of a skeleton checkerboard, with a key to the words to be inserted. The key suggests the word and the number of letters it contains. Some of them are exceedingly difficult to fathom.

The best puzzle worker I have seen in action is a Polishes show girl. Matching her vocabulary and fund of information of world-wide places it confounds the number of letters it contains. Some of them are exceedingly difficult to fathom.

Work in tanyards or gas-works is believed to be beneficial to those who suffer from diseases of the chest, while varnish makers seldom suffer from rheumatism.

LEADERS OF OLD PARTIES NOT SURPRISED ACCOUNT A. F. L.'S ENDORSEMENT

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Leaders of the two old parties in the capital today expressed neither surprise nor concern over the endorsement of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket by the convention of the American Federation of Labor. They say the action was both expected and discounted.

The old line politicians take the position that the labor leaders are not able to deliver the labor vote and that members of the unions all over the country will vote according to their regular affiliations or according to their personal inclinations. They say this always has been the case in the past and there is no reason to look for a reversal of the usual order this year.

Republicans recalled the fact that a number of the most prominent labor leaders of the country came out for the Democratic ticket in 1920. Yet every labor center in the country put up a huge majority for Harding and Coolidge. Labor was told at that time that the "interests" behind Harding and Coolidge meant using the bayonet and the injunction in any labor disputes that might arise. Mr. Coolidge was just out of the police street at Boston and had been re-elected governor of Massachusetts on what his followers called a "law and order" platform but which the unions interpreted as an anti-labor declaration. Governor Cox, of Ohio, the Democratic presidential candidate, had declared fair labor laws at that time. He had refused to call out the militia in labor disputes which he thought could be settled by mediation, and which proved to be the use of violence. Laborers listened to none of the advice given them apparently, but went to the polls in all their might and main for the Republican ticket.

At Democratic headquarters it was pointed out today that while the labor leaders have been for LaFollette from the beginning of his proposed candidacy, the rank and file of labor which had expressed itself had manifested a decided liking for William Gibbs McAdoo. This was particularly true of the "old line" workers. Working for LaFollette long before the Democratic national convention in New York City had been called to order. It was well-known to all who had probed the sentiment of the workers themselves, however, that they were for McAdoo almost to a man.

Senator LaFollette had accepted the nomination nevertheless before Mr. McAdoo had dropped out of the running at Madison Square Garden. The laborhood chiefs, therefore, would have been in rather an embarrassing position had a sudden change in sentiment carried the Californian over the top for the Democratic nomination.

These facts were recalled today to stress the point made by the Democrats and Republicans that there is division in labor and that the vote will be apportioned among the various presidential candidates along natural lines.

Nationally the labor is regarded much as the woman vote has been. There was some perturbation when women first were enfranchised to vote for presidential electors. But the politicians from the States where women had been voting for State officers for a great many years, stilled all fears by saying that the female vote would follow the male vote in voting itself in such a manner as to cause no particular upset. The women of the country have proved that they do not and will not vote en bloc. Labor, nationally, never has voted in that manner and the old party leaders were less to believe it cannot be so delivered this year.

The progressives, on the other hand, claim the situation is different from any which has confronted labor in the past. They say the present movement and the present candidates are calculated to appeal far more effectively to labor than was the Roosevelt-Johnson third party ticket in 1912. Labor, it is insisted, has a rallying point this year. Most of the LaFollette followers call a "choice of evils" as between the Republican and Democratic tickets and in such circumstances it was natural for labor to divide along more or less traditional lines. The progressive ticket has been endorsed as a combination of a "progressive independent Republican and a progressive independent Democrat." Therefore it is argued that both Republican and Democratic members of labor unions can vote for it and still retain a semblance at least of their old party affiliations.

The Republicans and the Democrats meantime are going forward with their plans to "capture" the labor vote by the usual time-honored formulas. Special bureaus are being organized to conduct the campaign among the workers.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 5.—The cotton market opened quiet, first trades showing losses of 2 to 8 points. Prices soon eased off to 26.93 for October and 26.92 for December or 10 to 12 points lower than yesterday's close. "The slight recession at the start was in sympathy with easier cables than due. Soon after the call prices rallied owing to advices from Texas claiming that the rains reported yesterday had been a disappointment, traded up to 27.13, and December to 27.10 or 18 to 20 points above the low. Two additional condition reports were issued this morning, one making the condition average 65 with an indicated crop of 12,425,000 bales and the other showing a condition of 67.8 and a yield of 12,440,000 bales.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—In the month of August we look for business signs. Here are some of them. The U. S. Rubber Company's plants at Woonsocket and Millville, R. I., resume operations today after having been closed down for five weeks, 1,800 operatives gone back to work. Another plant will resume operations shortly. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation yesterday started up another blast furnace at Bethlehem. A rail mill at the steel plant will resume operations. The bar mill at the Lackawanna plant will double its operations. The Journal of Commerce says the list of inquiries and awards for fabricated structural steel is the largest and most impressive for many weeks. It is the forerunner of an active business during the fall. Pittsburgh reports a general movement in the Pittsburgh district for the expected advance in the iron and steel business on a big scale.

Business is going to get better and this will be a new source of strength for the stock market.
